TURNED UP.

The Man Who Deserted His Children at the Santa Fe Depot Still Alive.

Under the caption "Forsaken by Their Father," there appeared an arago in which a sad story was told by two little girls being left desolate and alone at the Santa Fe depot by their father. It will be remembered that received by Jesse M. Melton was read: the article stated that the man, whose name is August Wehner, a carpenter by tra le, came to this city from Wills Point, accompanied by his two little daughters, arriving here on Tuesday,

Wehner had a lot of household goods, a chest of tools and some baggage. He said he was going to Austin, FOR SALE-IMPROVED FARM OF 10 gage. He said he was going to Austin, and in proof of this, he shipped his investment to. and paid the freight on them. About 8 o'clock that night, he left his little girls and walked off in the direction of the Missouri Pacific depot. That was the last seen of him. The children were found at the depot the next afternoon by a GAZETTE reporter, nearly wild with grief at the up town. They were then taken charge of by kind friends, who have taken good care of them since. Yesterday Mr. Chas. Wynne, chief clerk at the Santa Fe depot received a letter from Wehner, dated at Giddings, near Austin, asking that his effects which he had left here be forwarded to him at that place, but not a word did he say in explanation of his mysterious disappearance or in inquiry of his children. From this it is readily concluded that he aimed to desert tnem. The little girls say that he has ever been a kind father to them, is sober and industrious and they evidently entertain for him the liveliest filial affection. Such an inhuman parent is deserving of the severest punishment and it is a pity the law is powerless to deal with as he de-
